Full description

Experience Patagonia from the river on a private multi-day fly-fishing expedition. We explore remote, lightly fished sections of the Limay, Manso, Collón Curá or Caleufú rivers, with one professional guide and drift boat for every two anglers.

While you fish downstream, the cargo boat and support crew move ahead to prepare the next camp. Private sleeping tents, dining and kitchen tents, a shower, dry gear and Starlink internet are ready when you arrive. Each day combines exceptional fishing, wild scenery, Patagonian meals and evenings around the fire.

This listing represents a 3-day, 2-night base itinerary. Longer trips, different rivers and custom logistics can be arranged according to group size, angler experience and seasonal conditions.

The displayed price is an indicative per-person double-occupancy rate for a three-day expedition. Collón Curá and Caleufú require a higher rate because of the additional distance and logistics.

What's included

Round-trip transfers from your Bariloche accommodation; professional bilingual guide; drift boat and cargo boat; support crew; private tent for every two guests with cots, inflatable mattresses, sleeping bags and pillows; dining, kitchen and shower tents; all meals and selected beverages; fishing gear when needed; Starlink internet.

Not included

Fishing license (USD 40 per person per day; we can arrange it); gratuities for guides and camp crew; flights and accommodation before or after the expedition.

Meeting point

Pickup at the traveler's accommodation in central San Carlos de Bariloche. Exact time and launch point are confirmed according to the chosen river and itinerary.
