Full description

We leave town, away from the lights, to look at the Atacama sky, one of the clearest in the world. A bilingual astronomer guide shows you how to spot constellations with the naked eye, then we look at planets, star clusters and galaxies through telescopes, depending on the season. Hot drinks keep the cold away and you get two individual night photos in digital format. Bring warm, windproof clothes.

What's included

Transport, bilingual astronomer guide (Spanish and English), telescopes, hot drinks, 2 digital night photos, drop-off at your accommodation.

Not included

Warm clothing (desert nights are cold).
