Full description

Explore the breathtaking landscapes of Chile's La Araucanía Region in Northern Patagonia, cycling winding gravel paths through ancient Araucaria forests along an improved version of the famous Monkey Puzzle Tree Trail.

A special part of this journey is a cultural experience with the indigenous people of this region known as the Mapuche people who have called this land home for over 2500 years. You will share in some of their traditions, stories, and way of life while surrounded by snow-capped volcanoes and landscapes dating back to the Jurassic Period. This is your chance to embrace a rare living culture and the stunning beauty of this land while along the routes that connect them.
